The title game and soundtrack of "Citadale - The Legends Trilogy" were released on Dec. 23, 2014. This soundtrack contains all 32 tracks as originally intended for the game. You'll enjoy 16 of Ezekiel Rage's retro chiptune tracks reminiscent of the old arcade soundtracks, and 16 by Trevor Lentz who creates a more modern chiptune theme with today's digital game soundtracks. Plus, there are 5 bonus tracks that will appear in your in-game soundtrack. "Citadale - The Legends Trilogy" is the final installment in the "Citadale" video game series, in which the player takes the role of a super human named "Legends" who has gained the ability to travel back in time. The player embarks on an action-packed journey to locate and defeat various enemies from the "Legends" story line in order to save his friends, and restore peace to the timeline. "Citadale - The Legends Trilogy" is a traditional RPG, similar to classic games such as Final Fantasy and Breath of Fire. This game adds an innovative and fun twist to the RPG genre by adding a time travel mechanic to the game. Time travel is key to unlocking many of the game's puzzles, as the player has to quickly make difficult decisions in order to solve each puzzle. As player levels increase, they'll be able to travel farther and farther into the future.

The world we now know was once a lush and bountiful place. The mysterious forces of nature flourished in this Garden of Eden, and in the towering architectural forms of the titans rose the first civilizations. A civilization that gave birth to Gavril, the majestic and godlike ruler who ruled a kingdom known as Hvalin.

We know that centuries later Hvalin was ravaged by devastating wars and is now a mountainous, uninhabitable waste where few creatures exist. Gavril retreated into a cave in the mountains, and it is said that he sleeps there to this day. A small group of adventurers, accompanied by a mechanically-gifted mage, travel to the depths of the Desert of Lost Souls to seek out a route to the cold wastelands of Hvalin. For it is said that there lies a secret that is the key to ending Gavril's slumber. In his sleep Gavril is plagued by a demon inside his head. Not the product of a brutal murder, but one of immense power and purpose. And this inner demon wants Gavril to awaken... The Demon Awakens is an action RPG being developed with RPG Maker MZ. It's been in development for nearly four years, and is slated for release this year. It's been nine years since we released our first game, and we're excited to come back to you once more with a stronger, bigger game! Thanks for checking it out. We'll be continuing to update the Dev Blog as we get closer to launch. Our digital release date is set for 10/6/2012. IMPORTANT NOTES: This game does not use the use the possibility of save states. Once you begin the game, it will not be possible to save. Despite a common misconception that the character stats are randomized in this game, it's not possible to randomize the characters stats, and you will not be able to do so. This game is best played with 16-bit graphics and an emulator that supports 32-bit graphics. As always please feel free to contact

-???? Got two days to help me out. Dave I must be out of that social loop.... I found this one in the Wacom Wacom Forum and was able to google it. A: Indeed you have been hit by a SQL injection attack! I recommend you to execute this query in Microsoft SQL Server Management Studio: SELECT DISTINCT Name,compared_to FROM activity WHERE Name LIKE '%ERROR%' ; If I understand you correctly, it returns only those rows for which Name contains the string 'ERROR'. That is, the rows in which the substring ERROR has been found in the Name field. It won't return the Whole Name column. Ideally you should now understand that such an injection poses a critical risk to your application. So, I would advise you to replace Name for the table field in question by a proper column type such as
