1948. Its melody was lifted from an earlier song of similar title, written in the late 1920s by blues singer Big Bill Broonzy. Broonzy's song was much more poppy, was recorded on several occasions, and was a hit for Broonzy. The song, performed by Cash in 1949, reached number 18 on the Billboard Hot 100 and number 25 on Billboard's Country and Western chart. In addition to being released as a single, the song appeared in the 1989 film
