The partial view is using an object to pass data to it. When I update the model and call $('#divID').html() I lose the data. I am passing the data by passing the model to the partial view. The working example is located here (you can view the source of the site without seeing the data to see the problem): A: If you have generated a route for this partial view, you can pass arguments to that route. It will then use those as the form data to fill the model. Otherwise, you will need to create some JS that reads the model and passes the correct values to the partial view, e.g. $('#targetDiv').html($('#testdiv').html()); if you have: @model SomeModel @H 6d1f23a050
